4th Sunday of Lent John 3:14-21. Nicodemus visits Jesus by night

Jesus said to Nicodemus:

The Son of Man must be lifted up as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so that everyone who believes may have eternal life in him. Yes, God loved the world so much that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not be lost but may have eternal life. For God sent his Son into the world not to condemn the world, but so that through him the world might be saved. No one who believes in him will be condemned; but whoever refuses to believe is condemned already, because he has refused to believe in the name of God's only Son. On these grounds is sentence pronounced: that though the light has come into the world men have shown they prefer darkness to the light because their deeds were evil. And indeed, everybody who does wrong hates the light and avoids it, for fear his actions should be exposed; but the man who lives by the truth comes out into the light, so that it may be plainly seen that what he does is done in God;'

1. Spend some time quietly reading and rereading the passage, noting the words/phrases that draw your attention.
2. Place yourself with Nicodemus...hear Jesus speak these words to you. Notice your response - your thoughts, your feelings.... Notice what you learn about Jesus through listening to him...
3. Take time in prayer with Jesus...talk with him about his immense love of all people...of you...of the times you avoid his light...

ST PETER'S JUSTICE AND PEACE LENTEN PROJECT:

ST PETER'S JUSTICE AND PEACE LENTEN PROJECT:

Laptops for schools - We have had a really positive response to our request for old laptops that can be sent into schools for children to use, but we would like to give the schools as many as possible, so please keep them coming. If you can, please deliver to Carmel O'Malley at 11, Aldwyn Crescent, Hazel Grove SK7 5HY - she has made space in her porch for a Covid safe drop off. If you would prefer, Carmel is happy to collect so please call her on 07747 145326 to arrange this.

Supply of dried foods and tinned goods - Thank you for your kind generosity - we have had a fantastic response to our appeal and have already delivered food to the three primary schools. We intend to keep the appeal open and will deliver more food to the schools but in case there is a surplus, we will distribute food to the Hazel Grove Foodbank or the Wellspring. The green bin is in the porch next to the Piety Stall and is clearly labelled DRIED FOOD FOR SCHOOLS. We continue to ask for food that parents can use to make a nutritious meal or snack for children, so dried food without expiry dates, such as tinned meat/fish, cereal, beans/pulses, pasta, tea/coffee, long life milk, sugar etc.

Please continue to pray for our schools:

Our schools are a really big part of our church family and have remained open for teaching the most vulnerable students and the children of key workers throughout lockdown. Please hold our teachers, the support staff and the whole school community in your prayers:

Thank You, Father, for technology allowing many students to continue their educations online. For virtual classrooms and technological resources. Thank You for every teacher and student adjusting to their new normal. Comfort teachers and support staff as they miss interacting with their students in person. Equip them with energy and inspiration to come alongside their students in this challenging time of crisis. Protect their health, Father, both physically and mentally. Encourage them to use their gifts and talents to find new ways to reach students.

FROM FR PETER

Well it looks like the reintroduction of the 8 30 Mass on Sunday morning is a popular move with quite a good number taking advantage of it for this week and that leaves some more space at the 10 o'clock Mass. I hope that more people, especially our younger families, will find their way back to Mass in church as we approach Easter. The streamed version is only a substitute for the real thing! As many of you know and have reported there have been some problems with the live stream over the past few weeks and we are trying to resolve it. For some of you it may be that you have not enough capacity on your own wi-fi connections, but then I am no expert on these matters!

I am pleased that Fr Roman SDB from the Salesian community in Bollington will be coming down from the hills to celebrate the Easter Services at St Philip's. There will be Mass on Holy Thursday, the liturgy on Good Friday and Mass on Easter Sunday morning. I hope that some of the folk from St Philip's will be able to join us for the Easter Vigil here at St Peter's as has become the custom in recent years.

In the on line version of this newsletter I have included on page 7 a review of a book on prayer by Fr James Martin SJ. Its an excellent book on the subject and is also available for £7-99 via Amazon if you want to download it on to your Kindle. The hard copy is also slightly cheaper on Amazon! I have downloaded it on to my Kindle and am finding it very helpful. You could buy yourselves a copy as a reward for carrying the cross during Lent!

Have a good week

The past twelve months have been an exceptionally difficult time for all of us. We can only hope that the current vaccine rollout will eventually provide some relief. May the coming Novena to St. Joseph, in this Year dedicated to him by Pope Francis, be a source of comfort and support to all who have lost loved ones and whose lives have been adversely affected by this pandemic

NEW BEGINNINGS - A JOURNEY FROM LENT TO EASTER

For the past few years I've produced a Lent reflection leaflet continuing a format started by Bryan Halson during our time together on the former Shrewsbury Diocesan Justice and Peace Commission. This year Lent takes on a new meaning for me following the death from natural causes of my beloved elder daughter Annie in June 2020. For Advent 2020 I put together a series of weekly reflections based on her writings as a scripture scholar, teacher and evangelist. For Lent this year I am sharing some more of her material as we journey through Lent towards Easter.

I've been looking at C S Lewis' classic The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe whilst helping home-school our 9 year-old granddaughter during the latest lockdown. It seems apposite in the current situation to identify with a bleak land where it is 'always winter but never Christmas.' At present it feels as though we are existing in a continual season of Lent, an enforced time of fasting and abstinence from so many of the ordinary pleasures we take for granted: visiting family and friends or new places, going to a film or out for a meal, enjoying a day out to the coast or the countryside. We wait, sometimes with impatience, for the time to move forward to Easter and the joy of the Resurrection. We are locked in a period of stasis, of stagnation. There is frustration and fear. Will our lives ever be the same again? But we can choose to embrace this enforced isolation as an opportunity to quieten ourselves, to truly listen to God and discern a new way forward. We can use this time wisely to consider changes to our lifestyle that will help conserve the fast-diminishing natural resources of our planet, to live more simply and to work for the good of all. This is an opportunity to focus on what really matters and to journey in faith and hope.

Anne O'Connor

Sunday, March 14 Lent 4 O Let my tongue cleave to my mouth if I remember you not! Ps 136: 1-6 'In this time of prayer, as we searched in the silence, we put aside all distractions to seek God's face.'

Tuesday, March 16 The man was cured at once. John 5:1-3, 5-16 'Without God, there is no life, no movement, no change.'

Wednesday, March 17 Go out to the whole world and proclaim the Good News. Mk 16: 15-20 'The Church desperately needs effective evangelists. We need to understand our own teachings more clearly and then we need to get the message out to our cities, our country and our world.'

What happens when you close your eyes?

A profound and practical guide to listening out for God

Learning to Pray: A Guide for Everyone

JAMES MARTIN SJ

(WILLIAM COLLINS, 288 PP, £16.99)

TABLET BOOKSHOP PRICE £15.29 • TEL 020 7799 4064

THIS BOOK made me want to pray. In fact, more than many of the wild mystics, saints and spiritual writers I've read, it makes prayer so attractive, sensible and dynamic that I often failed to finish chapters in one go, putting the book aside to test its premises and promises in real time.

Which, according to the thoroughly Jesuitical supposition at its heart, is exactly why Fr James Martin SJ, author and editor at large of America magazine, wrote it. "Where does the desire to pray come from? From God ... Strange as it sounds, your reading of these lines at this moment is a sign of God's call."

"Prayer is a personal relationship with God," Martin explains – more specifically, a conscious conversation with God within the context of a relationship. It's relationality that underpins the thesis of the book. Prayer isn't what you say or how you say it: it's how you are with God – longing, bored, angry, sleepy – and how God is with you. No one can teach you how to pray, any more than they can teach you how to be a daughter or a husband. But they can teach you how to spot God's invitations. Nudges, like picking up a book on prayer; whispers, like wondering where your old rosary is; and inclinations – why can't you stop thinking about that news bulletin on asylum seekers? These invitations are easy to miss – or dismiss – amid the background noise of everyday busyness and desires. It usually takes a spiritual director to help you spot them – and what Martin has written is, essentially, a pocket-sized spiritual director.

British Catholics are not very good at talking about spiritual experiences. So this book – written with the winsome pitch that belies his background in business, Jesuit logic and Martin's unforced humour – is simultaneously a challenge and a relief. What actually happens when you pray for someone? What do we mean when we say we "hear" God? As Martin puts it, "what happens when you close your eyes?"

The answer to this last question depends in part on how you pray and, for all that this is steeped in context and relationality, Martin sketches out some helpful frameworks on which you can build your growing prayer habit. Some – like the chapters on petitionary prayer and rote prayer (like the Hail Mary) – also troubleshoot what most Christians assume "prayer" is, and mount an excellent defence against its detractors. Before you out-grow saying an Our Father in a tight spot, "have you ever wondered how many people have prayed [it] throughout history?" – from Jesus to Dorothy Day to Nelson Mandela?

Other chapters describe luminous, creative ways to be with God, rooted in Martin's Ignatian spirituality. The chapters on the Examen, a kind of review of the day in God's company, and Ignatian contemplation – picturing yourself inside a scene from the Bible – were, for me, undeniably attractive, unsilenceable, unshakable invitations to encounter God in these ways. But perhaps God will call you elsewhere, through Martin's refreshingly clear chapter on centring prayer, or nature prayer – looking for God in Creation.

WHAT MAKES this book such a joy to read is its assurance that God will make – indeed, already is making – his desire for you known. With much thoughtfulness, Martin considers issues like spiritual dryness and dark nights of the soul, but these kinds of experience are not the thrust of this book, so if that is where you are, go gently and thoughtfully, carrying what the first part of the book teaches about listening into its practical second half. For example, a recent bereavement has made me feel particularly spiky about petitionary prayer, and I brought that spikiness to Martin's optimistic chapter on the subject, where he points out that, in the face of life's challenges, "how could we not ask for help?"

Martin acknowledges the problem of unanswered prayer in the same way any skilled person with experience of the spiritual life would: the honest "I don't know" that can make being in a lonely spiritual place feel, initially, more lonely. But by engaging with the book, the spikiness and the loneliness had a chance to surface – or, rather, were called to the surface by God, an invitation not to be afraid of the very saddest and most frightening parts of human experience.

In the same way, and disproportionately, it was the bolts of joy and consolation and adventure that jostled to the front of my prayer life as I read this book. Reading about Martin's experience of God-in-prayer felt like hearing someone talk about a mutual friend with such warmth, confidence and enthusiasm that it made me want to rush to him, to discover for myself the multidimensional, multi-coloured, life-giving ways his love can manifest.

This is a book to treasure and ponder, to read slowly, by yourself, listening for God. But it is also a book whose wisdom demands to be shared, and whose insights grow in the sharing – whether that's in spiritual direction, in a prayer group, with your family or with God, whose invitation to pick it up is directed precisely at this homecoming.
